Open eTwinning

Project-Based Learning and the Community for Schools in Europe

starting Monday 5 November 2018

Why a course on Project-Based Learning?

Project-Based Learning is already actively engaging students in their learning process, and helping them build their knowledge and skills by offering engaging and collaborative activities. At the same time, new technologies enable students to connect with peers in different regions and countries, bringing new experiences to the classroom, and preparing students for a more connected future.

Key information

- Target audience: Teachers interested in project-based learning and eTwinning
- Duration: 6.5 weeks
- Weekly commitment: 3-4 hr/week
- Language: English
- Start date: 5/11/2018

Course contents

This course introduces participants to Project-Based Learning (PBL), providing a deep understanding of launching an international project. The course covers the entire life cycle of a project, from the initial idea, finding a partner and negotiating with them, designing a common project, to implementation. It looks at the principles of project work and collaboration, and the educational use of various ICT tools. Throughout this course, eTwinning is used as a resource for information, tools and inspiration to implementing PBL.
